

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a float (8) for a level indicator (3), the float consisting of a casing that surrounds a hollow cavity and a receptacle (16, 16') for a lever arm (7) of the level indicator (3). The float is configured from at least two interconnected shells (9, 9'), which when joined together form at least two separate chambers (13, 20-22).